FAMILY VINEYARDS

*Enjoy the views, our estate wines,
and a picnic on the mountain.*

In the spring of 2002, while driving from Healdsburg to the California coast with his family, Dan Gustafson, a landscape architect and real estate developer, pulled his car to the side of the road. Having peered over the fence of the property that would soon become his, he explained to all that this would be a perfect place to grow grapes. Dan saw his dream of planting his own vineyard come true that year with the purchase of those 87 acres in the Dry Creek Valley appellation of Sonoma County. The old sheep ranch, at an elevation of 1800 feet above sea level, has rich, red volcanic soil known for producing superb wine grapes.

In 2006 the estate property was expanded to 247 acres with the purchase of an adjacent property.

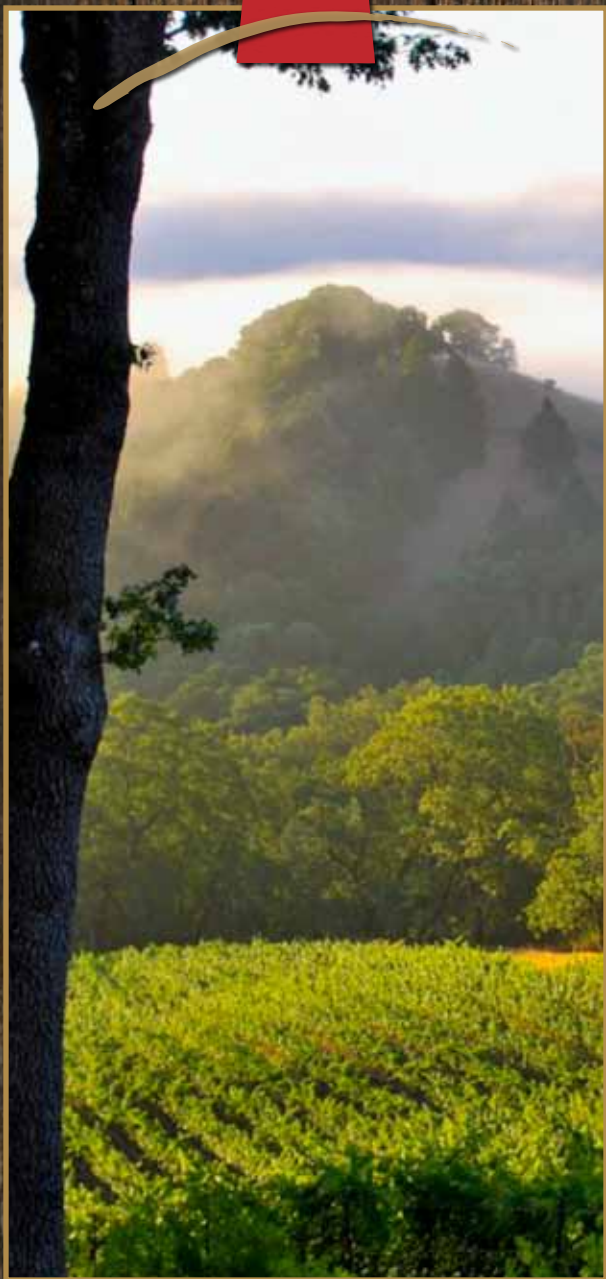

Vineyard plantings are now complete at 20 acres; varieties include Zinfandel, Petite Sirah, Syrah, Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Petite Verdot, Sauvignon Blanc and Riesling. The balance of the land will remain as an ecological preserve.

Sustainably farmed unique terroir.

When creating the vineyard, care was taken to preserve old groves of madrone, oak, and redwood trees, including the “Sonoma County Heritage Tree.” This 300-year-old madrone with a trunk diameter of eleven feet is thought to be the largest madrone tree in Sonoma County, and perhaps the entire state of California.

Preserving the land and our heritage.

The integrated home and winery that Dan and his craftsman colleagues have created truly merge with the landscape. They offer a spectacular view of Lake Sonoma and have become both workplace and retreat for the Gustafson family and their friends. The family intends to keep the vineyard property feeling like a private home; it is a place they enjoy hosting visitors and wine lovers from all over the world.

*An estate winery of the land.
Join us for the first time...
or again.*

*Our wines speak of these high elevation soils.
Above the valley, above the fog.*

*Enjoy the views,
our estate wines
...and a picnic on the mountain.*
